

Additional Children for the Canada Child Benefits Application

Find out if this form is for you

Fill out this form only if you are applying for child benefit programs on Form RC66, Canada Child Benefits Application, for more than two children. Once this form is filled out, attach it to Form RC66.

Your information

Social insurance number (SIN):

First name:

Last name:

Information about the child(ren)

Child 3 – Information

First name:

Last name:

Gender:  Female  Male

Date of birth:
Year Month Day

City of birth:

Province or territory of birth (or country if outside Canada):

You must be primarily responsible for the care and upbringing of this child when the child lives with you.

Does the child live with you most or all of the time?  Yes  No

If yes, enter the date the child started living with you most of all of the time. If the child has lived with you since birth, tick the box:

or  Since birth
Year Month Day

If no, select the box that represents the percentage of time the child lives with you (select only one box):

More than 60% of the time (for example, the child lives with you during the week and with the other individual every second weekend)
If you select this box, we consider you to be the only eligible individual for this child. Enter the date the child started living with you more than 60% of the time:

Year Month Day

Between 40% and 60% of the time, and the child lives the rest of the time with another individual at a different address (for example, the child lives with you one week and with the other individual one week, or with you 4 days a week and with the other individual 3 days a week)

If you select this box, we consider you to be in a shared custody situation for this child. Enter the date the child started living with you between 40% and 60% of the time:

Year Month Day

Less than 40% of the time (for example, the child lives with you every second weekend)

If you select this box, you should not apply since we do not consider you to be eligible for the child and family benefits for this child.

Information about the child(ren) (continued)*Child 4 – Information

First name: _____

Last name: _____

Gender:  Female  MaleDate of birth: _____
Year Month Day

City of birth: _____

Province or territory of birth
(or country if outside Canada): _____You must be primarily responsible for the care and upbringing of this child when the child lives with you.Does the child live with you most or all of the time?  Yes  NoIf yes, enter the date the child started living with you most or all of the time. If the child has lived with you since birth, tick the box:_____
Year Month Day or  Since birthIf no, select the box that represents the percentage of time the child lives with you (select only one box): More than 60% of the time (for example, the child lives with you during the week and with the other individual every second weekend)

If you select this box, we consider you to be the only eligible individual for this child. Enter the date the child started living with you more than 60% of the time:

_____
Year Month Day Between 40% and 60% of the time, and the child lives the rest of the time with another individual at a different address (for example, the child lives with you one week and with the other individual one week, or with you 4 days a week and with the other individual 3 days a week)

If you select this box, we consider you to be in a shared custody situation for this child. Enter the date the child started living with you between 40% and 60% of the time:

_____
Year Month Day Less than 40% of the time (for example, the child lives with you every second weekend)If you select this box, you should not apply since we do not consider you to be eligible for the child and family benefits for this child.

If you have more than 4 children, use another Form RC66-1, Additional Children, to give their information. Attach it to Form RC66, Canada Child Benefits Application.

See the privacy notice on Form RC66, Canada Child Benefits Application.