Notice to client

This notice uses plain language to explain the law concerning your discounting transaction. For the exact wording, consult the Tax Rebate Discounting Act.

If the actual amount of the refund is more than the estimated amount by $10 or more, the discounter must make every reasonable effort to pay you the full amount of the excess as soon as the refund is received. However, the discounter is allowed to keep the refund interest.

If the discounter does not pay the excess within 30 days, the discounter must immediately send it, together with a copy of this form, to the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA). The CRA will hold this excess in your account to pay any future tax you may owe, or will pay it to you at your request, or the next time you apply for a refund.

Notice to discounter

If the actual amount of the refund is more than the estimated amount by $10 or more, you must make every reasonable effort to pay the client the full amount of the excess, not including refund interest, as soon as the refund is received. If you do not pay this amount within 30 days, you must send it at once to the CRA. Make your cheque payable to the Receiver General of Canada. Include the first copy of this form and write the client's name on the back of the cheque.
